Description

Our development of free-flowing nail dip powder to a specific particle size distribution has allowed manufacturers to launch complete systems of resin, activator and colored acrylic nail powder. With our ability to manufacture these powders to a tight particle size, we can provide a consistent product that works predictably with the other system chemicals and more importantly, works consistently for the nail technician and customer.

We are also able to research and replicate existing nail dip powder formulations; an ability which safeguards supply chains in the case of any one supplier failure.

Success story

A nail dip powder manufacturer was seeking a new polymer supplier for their acrylic nail powder applications; their current supplier was unable to support neither the quality nor quantity required. We were tasked with developing a suitable replacement within a very tight time-frame to prevent supply interruptions.

Within 4 weeks we managed to develop, scale-up production and supply new material in bulk to the customer. Within 4 months, we further optimised the formulation to surpass all previous specifications, making one of the best nail dip acrylics and saving the customer significant processing time. We are now the clients' primary supplier of this polymer.
